AMONG THE FARMERS.

A Visit to Rothamsted.

(By Ford S. Prince.)

Well known as the Rothamsted Experiment Station is all over the world, I looked in vain for it on the map. After a great deal of search and inquiry I finally discovered that it was located in Hertfordshire, which is one of the English counties, not far north of London.

The ride from London to Harpenden showed that Rothamsted is located in a section very typical of Southern England. The fields are rolling, the more hilly portions being wooded. Small grains and hay are the chief crops, indicating that the soil is rather heavy, which is the case. On account of the scarcity of lumber, the English have turned to a very permanent type of farm buildings, mainly brick with red tile roofs. Now and then, through the car window, one gets a glimpse of a big mansion, which signifies that the country round about belongs, or once did, to the owner of the large house, "My Lord of the Manor." Within the last ten years the English have been breaking up these big estates, and the more prosperous farmers are buying farms of their own.

Harpenden, the village near Rothamsted, is a quaint old-fashioned English town, with its inns and curious old shops, with an occasional garage to modernize the place, and a few thatched roofs to give it a rural aspect. The village green, or commons, of which many English villages boast, stretches through the center of the town and far up past the entrance to the grounds of Rothamsted.

Walking up the common I soon came to Rothamsted. In front of the main building is a huge boulder, on which has been carved this inscription: "To commemorate the completion of fifty years of continuous experiments (the first of their kind) in agriculture, conducted at Rothamsted by Sir John Bennet Lawes and Joseph Henry Gilbert, A. D. 1893." Immediately back of this memorial stands the main building of the Rothamsted Station, a modest two-story brick structure, which houses practically all of the laboratories, offices and library. A stranger is impressed by the simplicity and modesty of the place. It is a fact that more building space is needed, but this world-famous institution has only a meager income, derived almost wholly from gifts of its founder, Sir John Bennet Lawes.

The experiments at Rothamsted were really started as the result of an argument between Sir John Lawes and the German scientist, Justus von Liebig. Liebig held that if plants were supplied with other minerals, the carbon and nitrogen necessary for their growth would be obtained from the air. Lawes held that nitrogen was also a necessity in the soil, and proceeded to demonstrate his belief. The fact was that both were right and both wrong, but the truth of nitrogen fixation by legumes was not proved for nearly a half century after the founding of Rothamsted.

My first wonder as I walked out over these famous fields and listened to the explanations of the guide was, why it was planned in the beginning so that crops would be grown continuously on the same soil. I soon learned, however, that when the experiments were planned about eighty years ago, little definite knowledge was possessed as to the why of soil fertility and crop production. For example, on Broadbalk field, the most famous of all, wheat has been grown continuously for more than eighty years. One plot on this field has had no plant-food added in any form during this time. Another plot has received an annual dressing of fourteen loads of barnyard manure, while the other plots, some twenty in all, receive ammonia or nitrate salts or minerals in different combinations and amounts. The average yield of the unfertilized plot, up to 1912, was 12.6 bushels per acre, for a period of sixty-one years. The yield started at about fifteen bushels in 1840 and has fallen until now the yield seems to be about stationary at ten bushels per acre, with no signs of soil exhaustion. Such a crop is, of course, not a profitable one. Where the minerals have been supplied, but no nitrogen, as on plot 5, the yield for the same period has been 14.5 bushels.

On plots 6, 7 and 8 the treatment has been the same as on plot 5, except that plot 6 receives 200 pounds of ammonium salts, plot 7, 400 pounds, and plot 8, 600 pounds. The wheat on these plots proves to be regular stair steps, the three plots yielding an average of 23.2 bushels, 32.1 bushels, and 36.6 bushels respectively. These yields show the law of diminishing returns—that after a certain point little more can be secured from extremely heavy applications of fertilizer.

It has been found that fertilizers of soluble nitrogen are more effective for a fall-sown crop like wheat, when a small portion is put on in the fall and the balance in the spring. This is the way the ammonia fertilizers are applied, except on one or two check plots. The reason for this is that the wheat crop does not grow rapidly enough in the autumn to assimilate the nitrates as fast as they become available, and they leach out in drainage water during winter.

Plot 2, which receives an annual dressing of manure has had an average yield for sixty-one years of 35.2 bushels.

Fortunately I obtained a comparison between the unmanured plot, wheat after fallow with no fertilizer, and wheat in a rotation with no fertilizer. Here are the yields:

| Continuous wheat Broadbalk field Plot 3 | Wheat after fallow Hoos field Plot 0 | —Rotation wheat Agdell field Plots 21-22 |
|---|---|---|
| 11.3 bushels | 17.2 bushels | 26.9 bushels |

The fallow plot is cultivated one year and planted to wheat the next. The rotation plots are grown in a four-year rotation with a legume.

As all these facts were narrated to me by the guide, I asked if all crops showed this ability to live in the same soil year after year. He replied that while certain crops, barley for instance, did almost as well as wheat, other crops did not have this virtue, due to insects, soil exhaustion, crop sickness, or a combination of all causes. He showed me the plot on Hoos field where potatoes were grown continuously from 1876 to 1921, when the yield got so low that it was evident the soil was exhausted for potatoes.

In another experiment the object was to exhaust the soil completely. Oats were grown for a few years until they failed. Then barley was seeded for a few years, at first with good results, but later it failed. Now wheat is being produced on this ground with no signs yet of crop failure. The ability of wheat to grow where barley and oats fail is no doubt due to its deeper rooting habit and its ability to get much plant-food from deeper layers in the soil, but even this deep rooting habit does not keep some crops, as for example, red clover. In 1849, a start was made to grow red clover continuously, and in the next twenty-seven years red clover was seeded on this land, fifteen times, but only seven crops were produced. Clover sickness and not exhaustion seemed to be the cause of clover failure.

Before Dean Mayer got his new automobile, he declared he wasn't going to be suddenly incapacitated for work on any number of pleasant afternoons like some folks he could mention, but we notice that now Dean has a lame back which bothers him a lot when the going is extra good. The only cure, apparently, is a good long siege at the wheel to take out the kinks.

"That hoss o' mine," said the farmer from the Streaked Mountain District, "don't balk 'cause he's bad tempered. He jes' likes to hear conversation."

Wanted—36,000,000 Fruit Trees.

New England is short more than 36,000,000 fruit trees. The recent census shows a loss during the ten year period of 1910 to 1920 of 36,000,000 bearing apple trees, 76,000 pear trees and 50,000 plum trees. There was a slight gain for the period in cherry trees and about 200,000 more peach trees. Thus as a whole the 1920 census shows 36,000,000 fewer fruit trees than in 1910. One would naturally expect a decided increase rather than decrease in sympathy with the increased population, not to mention the unquestioned heavier demand of consumers whose appetite for fruit is much keener than formerly.

A vital factor in the future of New England orcharding is the remarkable progress our fruit growers are making in improved methods of growing, spraying, grading and packing the fruit. No branch of our agriculture can boast of more rapid strides in better methods than can fruit growing. The New England fruit show reinforced by state pomological societies, fruit growers' exchanges, county farm bureaus, college extension services, etc., has accomplished untold good. New England farmers have made more progress in fruit growing the past eight or ten years than they did in the preceding twenty-five years. Orcharding to-day is looked upon as a real commercial proposition worth a man's undivided attention, whereas a few years ago it was more of a backyard or rocky pasture side line.

A far reaching outcome of the rapidly changing conditions is pretty likely to be the displacement in the comparatively near future of western apples in New England markets by those locally grown. Some of the best authorities in the country declare that New England soils and climate produce fruit of better flavor than is found on the Pacific coast. In each New England state we have thousands of acres which are as well or better adapted to apples as Oregon, Washington or any other state in the union. With our improved methods of production, grading and marketing, the west and south are going to have a man-sized job to compete with New England's superior product. Their long shipments under high transportation rates alone constitute a heavy handicap. As a matter of fact, some of our New England growers can produce a box of apples for what it will cost to ship them from Oregon to Boston.

The rank and file of New England farmers wisely do not attempt growing wheat in competition with the easily tilled fields of the Dakotas. They can profit more on one acre of fruit than a Dakota farmer can on twenty to forty acres of wheat. There is neither rhyme nor reason in New England annually importing hundreds of carloads of western apples. It is grossly uneconomic to supply consumers from such a distance when better fruit can be produced locally. The superior grading and marketing practiced by western growers is what allowed them to usurp New England markets while our growers were asleep at the switch.

Yet there is every evidence that our farmers are coming out of their trance. The next few years are likely to be important ones in the New England fruit industry. Instead of planting trees by the dozen they may be set by the hundreds; instead of seedling trees in rough pastures there may be acres upon acres of well handled orchards; instead of big and little, wormy and fair fruit going into the same package and dumped upon the market, we will probably see skilled grading and intelligent distribution.

There is a great future for the fruit industry. Nearness to unparalled markets and a soil and climate that give superior flavor are bound to influence the future. There is no possible danger of over-production, provided farmers will take the necessary precautions in grading, standardization, packing and efficient distribution. The New England fruit industry is coming to its own, the discouraging census figures notwithstanding. And this in spite of an occasional unfavorable season, which are not as frequent or as serious here as in other sections.

Fruit Growers' Exchange.

The Maine Fruit Growers' Exchange with offices at Buckfield did a total business amounting to $136,000 last year, on a basis of 3.8 per cent overhead expense, and at a profit to the co-operating growers of $1 per barrel above current wholesale prices quoted in the bureau of markets reports.

The organization also handled for its members 500 tons of fertilizer, more than 35 tons of orchard dust, 10 orchard power dusters, and a large quantity of spray materials. Through the exchange, and in co-operation with the college of agriculture extension service, the Maine department of agriculture and the farm bureau, 20,000 apple trees were purchased and planted on Maine farms.

This is a summary of the figures reported at the annual meeting of the exchange. The season's prospect was reported as being brighter than ever before. Wilson H. Conant of Buckfield, who has been president of the organization ever since it was started, declined a re-election and George M. Young of Livermore was elected president; C. M. Conant of Winterport, vice-president; W. F. Sewall of Bowdoinham, secretary; W. H. Conant, Buckfield, treasurer. The board of directors consists of those mentioned and E. W. Dolloff of Standish.

Seventeen-Year Locust.

The seventeen-year locust or cicada, as it is more properly called, may be expected this year in Illinois and southern Wisconsin, with small broods along the lakes. In Indiana, on the border of Lake Michigan, and in the southern tier of counties in the state of Michigan, the characteristic whirring noise of the cicada will be heard. A big brood will appear in eastern Iowa.

Unlike the locusts of the Bible, which were really destructive grasshoppers, the seventeen-year cicada does but little damage of a serious nature. Interest in it is due chiefly to its unusually long life cycle. The bureau of entomology of the United States department of agriculture will welcome observations on this year's occurrence in order to maintain its records, from which is forecast the reappearance of the various broods. There are about thirty broods of the seventeen-year cicada scattered over the United States in different sections and appearing in different years. From 1924 to 1928 almost no cicada will be seen.

Bee Keeping in New Motion Picture.

Bee keepers will be interested in a new motion picture prepared by the United States department of agriculture showing the best practice in handling bees and the control of bee diseases. The film, which is called "Keeping Bees at Work," is intended to supplement a picture entitled "Bees—How They Live and Work," issued some time ago for more popular use.

The new picture shows the need for requeening the colony from time to time, the way to prepare the bees for wintering, the time to unpack the hives, the control of the swarm, and other details of management. The fact that the bureau of entomology will examine samples of combs to identify diseases and advise on their control is brought out.

The film is in one reel, and may be borrowed by extension workers and others entitled to the privilege, or prints may be purchased for approximately the cost of making them, which is about $37.

There were 359,839 fewer meat animals slaughtered in the United States under federal inspection during April this year than last. To this shortage sheep and lambs contributed 301,511, hogs 57,533, cattle 577, and calves 218.

What is it that a quart of it is worth more than a bushel of it? Rye.

Who remembers when the only cream separator was the calf?

SOUTH PARIS

Roy Good of Songo Pond was in the village Tuesday.

Charles Hammond was a recent guest of friends in Bethel.

Ernest P. Crockett is on a trip of a week or more to New York.

Miss Helene Pitts of Lewiston is spending several days at home.

Nathan A. Silver has been visiting in Massachusetts during the past week.

Miss Louise Powers is visiting relatives in Massachusetts for two weeks.

H. O. Reed is building an addition and a piazza on his house on Maxim Avenue.

Miss Harriet Jenne left Wednesday to spend a week with Miss Rena Tribou at Bucksport.

The Seneca Club netted about $260 from the tag sale and the pop concert on the Fourth.

A. J. Eastman was registered at the Congress Square Hotel in Portland Wednesday.

Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Buck will go on Tuesday to Bailey's Island for a stay of two weeks.

Archie Plummer of Berlin, N. H., has been a recent guest of his sister, Mrs. Myrtle Whitney.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank L. Cann of New York are guests of Mrs. Cann's mother, Mrs. Martha C. Tolman.

Harry Williams and family are to move to Hebron, where he will be employed about the academy.

A. C. Frost of Bethel is located in this village for a time working on the block signals on the Grand Trunk Railway.

Mrs. Helen Kimball, who has been stopping in this village several weeks, has returned to her home in Andover.

Miss Florence Johnson, who has been visiting in the home of Walter Powers in Norway, has returned to her home here.

Rev. Chester Gore Miller started last Tuesday for a visit of about two weeks to relatives in Big Rapids, Mich., and Elkhart, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Evirs are making their home with Mrs. Evirs' grandfather, A. E. Morse, on Oxford Street, for the summer at least.

Shaw's Orchestra plays this Monday evening at the Bungalow-Playhouse at Harrison, Wednesday and Saturday evenings at West Lovell Pavilion.

The standing grass on the Cleasby place will be sold at auction on the premises, Wednesday afternoon of this week, at 1:30 P. M., in field lots.

A card received by the Democrat from New York announces the birth of Dorothy Morris Farrar to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wilbur Farrar on the 28th of June.

Mrs. Nellie Powers and son Gordon Powers have recently visited relatives in Massachusetts, Gordon returning the first of last week, and Mrs. Powers later.

Mrs. John Dorney of Minneapolis, Minn., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Starbird, for a few weeks. Mr. Dorney has also been here for a short time, but returned the first of last week.

Mrs. Harold Cole and Miss Mary Abbott are spending a week or two at Alton C. Wheeler's red camp at Shagg Pond. Mr. Cole is spending such time there as he can. During one of his stops there he actually caught a good sized trout out of Shagg Pond. It has been rumored that there was one there.

Lakeview on Norway Lake, the popular dance pavilion, is still drawing large crowds Tuesday and Friday nights. A good place to bring your summer company for a jolly good time, always a breeze, good music. The park is for the public to use at any time for picnics, etc. Bring your suppers and stop over for the evening.

A man died in Portland Wednesday, who at one time was well known in South Paris. He was Peter Sylvester Doyle, retired engineer of the Portland fire department. Mr. Doyle has had a long and adventurous career (he was 78 years old.) He has served in the United States army and navy, to say nothing of a number of years' service on the Grand Trunk railway. It was in this connection that he was known in South Paris. He was an engineer in the old days when one end of the run was this village. While in this service he was blown up on the old locomotive Lancaster at Danville Junction and got out of it with only a broken leg. He was blown up in the air at least forty feet, and landed, when he came down, on a wood pile. He served in the United States army under Capt. Henry W. Lawton, who afterwards became a major general, and was killed in the Philippines. He also served in the navy for a term of years. He rounded out his military experience as a lieutenant of the old Sheridan Rifles, a Portland Company, which was one of the best drilled companies in the state. His last service was in the Portland fire department, in which he served thirty years.

The Numerous Knicker Girl.

In these vacation days, in this advanced year of our Lord nineteen hundred and twenty-two, those who are even mildly shocked by the sight of a girl—or a woman—in knickers, will have to put up lightning rods to carry off the electricity. It wouldn't do to "take to the woods," because there the phenomenon is most distinctly in evidence.

And speaking of shocks, there are some of us who think that a girl in properly made knickers (not the old fashioned three-yard bloomers), with the rest of her apparel to correspond, is at least as modestly attired as in some of the other costumes in which she appears on the street and in other public places, unafraid and unashamed.

But listen, girls! Have some regard for the proprieties, or at least for the esthetics of dress. A figure appeared on the streets of "our town" the other day, which was indeed almost shocking. She was rather larger than the average woman. She wore knickers which were sufficiently large, if not a little more so, but none too well tailored. Her blouse was not conspicuous and not subject to marked criticism. But she wore a wide-brimmed sailor hat, set at a feminine angle on the back of her head, and on her feet—horrors!—were a pair of ultra-feminine patent leather pumps, with heels as big as your thumb and three inches high. Can you visualize it? Don't mix things that way.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, The Great Master of the universe in His wisdom has called to the heavenly home our beloved sister, Lilly Ring, and

Whereas, Sister Ring was an active, earnest worker in Franklin Grange, as well as in all the interests and activities that make up a useful Christian life, therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of Sister Ring, Franklin Grange loses a valuable member, the husband a perfect helpmeet, the children a loving, self-sacrificing mother, and the community a loyal, active worker, whose place will be hard to fill.

Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days in honor of her memory.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved husband, a copy spread upon our records and a copy sent to the Oxford Democrat for publication.

NORWAY.

The Browning Reading Club held their annual picnic on Tuesday at Cedarbrook Farm, Mrs. Ernest Hutchins, hostess.

The Harry Rust Woman's Relief Corps will serve a baked bean and salad dinner on Thursday at Knights of Pythias Hall. The committee in charge consists of the following members: Mrs. Edith Edwards, Mrs. Addie Lovejoy, Mrs. Elizabeth Sampson, Mrs. Addie Thurston, Mrs. Alozia Witham, Mrs. Vira Kilgore, Mrs. Ida Hall and Mrs. Rose Everett.

William Francis Lewis has returned from Dr. Cobb's hospital in Auburn, where he sustained an operation on the nose.

Miss Martha Hamlin of Waltham, Mass., has been the guest of her sister and brother, Miss Rose Hamlin and William Hamlin.

Miss Edith Jordan of North Bridgton, a teacher in the Boys' Academy, Albany, N. Y., has been a guest of relatives in town for a week or so past.

Langdon Pendexter of Intervale, N. H., has been a recent guest of his cousins, George L. and Miss Della M. Noyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen O. Jellerson and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer B. Packard are at Hampton Beach, N. H., for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Laura Proctor is in West Bethel, a guest of Ervin Hutchinson and family.

The many friends of Mrs. Charles P. Barnes, (who, as most people know, was a former resident of Norway) will be pained to learn that she recently had the misfortune to slip while coming down the steps of the Barnes home in Houlton, striking on the granite curbing and injuring her quite severely. Latest advices say her condition is slowly improving.

A fishing party went to Kingfield last week consisting of Theodore Frost, Benjamin Bicknell, Ralph Richardson, George Emmons and Herman Emmons. While away Mr. Frost had the misfortune to slip on a rock, injuring his knee so badly he was obliged to return home.

Hon. Bertrand G. McIntire has been appointed director of the port of Portland by Governor Percival P. Baxter.

There was an interesting item in the Lewiston Journal of the issue of July 8, under the heading of "Fifty Years Ago." The item was in regard to Rev. J. C. Snow, who on the first Sunday of July, 1872, began his second pastorate in the Auburn Universalist church. His first pastorate in that city began in 1863, when he came from the churches of Norway and Paris, where he had been for the previous five years. This is why the item is of interest to Norway people.

A party of fishermen—F. W. Sanborn, Edwin S. Cummings, Albert J. Stearns and James N. Favor of Norway, with Clarence Morton of South Paris, and Samuel Penney of Mechanic Falls—started for Lake Cupsuptic Wednesday morning.

Miss Virginia R. Tubbs was in Portland Wednesday, and while there visited the old Longfellow home on Congress Street.

Miss Bertha Millett has gone to Oquossoc for the summer.

An Impressive Service.

A pleasant service was held on Sunday, July 3d, at the home of Mrs. Sybil (Carman) Andrews, widow of Freeman Bradford Andrews, and her sister, Miss C. E. Carman, when Mrs. Andrews united with the Congregational church, which she attended as a child with her father and mother, Isaac B. Carman and Mrs. Sarah (Stockbridge) Carman, who were constant attendants. Rev. Mr. Raymond, the pastor, and Rev. Mr. Paul of Mechanic Falls officiated. Mr. Buker offered prayer, rendering the Litany from the Episcopal Book of Prayer at the request of the family. Mr. Paul administered the rite of baptism as Mr. Buker has not been ordained. A hymn, "Sun of My Soul," was sung. An original poem written by Caroline E. Carman was read by Mr. Paul. The service of admission was read by Mr. Paul and the hymn, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," was sung. The benediction was given by the pastor.

Only a few of the nearest friends of the sisters were present, as Mrs. Andrews is very feeble and unable to bear much. She will be eighty-nine the 12th of November, having been born on the night of the meteoric shower of 1833.

She has long wished to take this step, but sickness prevented, as her mother greatly wished that both of her daughters should become members of a Christian church. The denomination was unessential as the eternal verities are the same, although they differ in some minor points of doctrine.

The church in Oxford was endeared by many old associations. Her parents were persons of strong religious convictions and showed forth their faith in their early life and conduct. Mr. Carman was one of the parishioners and together with two brothers, Thomas and Luther Carman, labored for a church edifice, giving according to their ability in money and in work.

Mrs. Andrews has been too feeble to attend church except on a few memorial occasions since the death of her husband, March 25, 1911. She is living with her sister, Miss Carman, under the care of a nurse, Miss Rena Martin. Miss Carman is suffering from sciatic rheumatism and practically helpless. She has been unable to stand or walk since the last of April and still suffers acutely.

Following is the poem by Miss Carman:

Saviour all glorious, gracious and merciful,
Hear thy weak children when on Thee we call;
Guide us, and help us, and keep us from evil:
Saviour of sinners, who died for us all.

When the bright sunshine of morning beams over us,
When the dark shadows of night thickly fall,
Give us Thy presence to cheer and sustain us:
Saviour of sinners, who died for us all.

When this brief dream of our life shall be ended,
And we must answer to death's certain call,
Thou still art our refuge, our strength, our Redeemer:
Saviour of sinners, who died for us all.

Oxford County Notes.

A four year old girl, Miss Dorothy Reed of Roxbury, is perhaps the youngest car owner in the state to-day, she having won the Ford automobile that was given away at Dixfield on the Fourth.

Henry F. Jordan, retired lieutenant of the Lynn police department, died in that city last week. He was born at Andover Jan. 13, 1842, the son of Amos and Sarah Jordan. Mr. Jordan saw service with the 17th and the 32d Maine Regiments and participated in 17 battles during which time he was wounded several times. At the end of the war he went to Lynn and was appointed a police officer Jan. 10, 1888, and was awarded the honor of being the largest man on the force being six feet two inches in height. He was commissioned a lieutenant Jan. 1, 1894, and was retired with pension May 5, 1914.

Old Home Day at Harrison.

Harrison will observe Old Home Day on Saturday, July 22, the native residents and summer visitors cooperating in making the day a success. Everybody is welcome, and all ought to have a good time. The general program of the day is as follows:

9:30 A. M. Fantastic Parade.
10.00 A. M. Water sports, with prizes for each event.
1:00 P. M. Athletic sports, with prizes for each event.
3:00 P. M. Entertainment by the different camps.
4:30 P. M. Base ball game.

There will be band concert, dancing afternoon and evening at the Bungalow-Playhouse, midway features, seaplane flights. Lunch will be served by the women of Harrison.

Governor Baxter has been invited to be present, and it is now expected that he will be there.

PARAGRAPHS FOR THE NEW ENGLANDER

News of General Interest From the Six States

It is unofficially stated in Bar Harbor that President Harding will spend a part of his vacation this year at that place, coming about the middle of August in the presidential yacht, Mayflower.

Attorney J. Arthur Baker of Pittsfield, Mass., who was mentioned recently in connection with the Republican nomination for member of the Governor's Council, has announced his candidacy for State auditor.

The first American to obtain the right to practice before the Spanish bar is Joachin David Rickard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Rickard of 19 Highland avenue, Haverhill, Mass., who recently passed all law examinations at Madrid University.

Counsel for Emil Schutte sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ball and their son Jacob in Haddam Conn., in 1915, has filed with the clerk of the superior court a petition for a new trial for Schutte. The petition is returnable before Judge Kellogg, Sept. 5.

While Imelda Durack, daughter of Mrs. Imelda Durack of Springfield, Mass., was watching the Fourth of July parade, an unknown person came up behind her and clipped off five long, beautiful curls. The act was performed so deftly that the girl was unable to say just when she lost her curls.

Thirty miniature spruce and fir trees, exactly two feet high, have been shipped to Chattanooga by State Chamber of Commerce to figure as a background for camping exhibit which will be arranged by the Maine delegation as a feature of the national convention of business and professional women's clubs.

Lt.-Col. Frederick W. Stopford, U. S. A., in charge of national guard affairs in New England, has announced from headquarters of the 1st corps area, that 500 officers and 8800 soldiers of the national guard of the New England states have gone into summer encampment at various places in New England Saturday.

According to a ruling made by the Rt. Rev. Thomas M. O'Leary, bishop of the Springfield, Mass., diocese non-Catholics contemplating marriage to Catholics in that diocese must take a six-weeks' course of instruction in Catholic doctrine before a dispensation permitting the marriage will be granted.

E. D. Howe, formerly master of the State Grange, says farmers in Massachusetts have been put back three weeks on account of the rain. Already there is a scarcity of garden products. The most noticeable of these are green peas. Very small quantities of these are in the market, and they bring a high price.

Massachusetts Commissioner of Corrections, Sanford Bates, in a recent statement, places the 1921 population of the State's prison at 3253, whereas, during the "wet" years of 1914-17, the population averaged 6100. Arrests in 1914 for violation of the automobile laws totalled 4249, whereas in 1921 there were 18,056.

Forcing a window on the westerly side of the building which gave access to the foyer, cracksmen succeeded in ripping away two locks on the door leading to the box office at B. F. Keith's Theatre, Portland. Before they had opportunity to rifle the safe or inspect the contents of the office, they were frightened away.

The Netherlands Indies, with a population of 47,000,000, offer practically a virgin territory to American manufacturers for trade in cotton, shoes, machinery and paper, according to John A. Fowler, American trade commissioner, who recently returned from a survey of conditions there and is now in Boston to confer with New England business men.

At the very spot where his father won a medal by saving a girl's life 22 years ago, 12-year-old Thomas J. Fern, Jr., Hebronville, Mass., saved the life of 8-year-old Philip Ganelle. Thomas J. Fern, Sr., on the Fourth of July, 22 years ago, in an identical manner, saved the life of Agnes Kevin, also of Hebronville, and was presented with a medal.

"Less than one-half the school teachers of the United States ever attended high school and less than one-fifth of them had any special professional training to fit them for their positions," said Thomas E. Finegan, Pennsylvania superintendent of education, at the session of the National Education Association convention in Mechanics' Building, Boston.

An earnest effort to get every Republican voter of both sexes to the polls next September and to conduct a vigorous campaign in the meantime was decided upon at a meeting in Augusta, Me., of the Kennebec county Republican committee. Gov. Percival P. Baxter, Congressman John E. Nelson, State Chairman Robert J. Peacock of Lubec, and the majority of the candidates for county offices, were present. There was also a representative gathering of Republican women of the county.

BOSTON MARKET REVIEW

For Week Ending July 7, 1922

Prepared by U. S. Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates

BRIGHTON LIVE STOCK AND DRESSED MEAT MARKET

Light receipts, strong western prices made local offerings steady on most all classes of livestock. Good and Medium steers and oxen $6.50-9.00 few choice 9.50 per 100 lbs. Butcher cattle, cows and heifers 4.00-7.00 few choice 7.50. Bulls, under moderate supply weak at 4.50-5.50. Hogs under light supply were firm with bulk going at 11.25-11.75 per 100 lbs. Lamb receipts shorter than week ago with quality improving. Choice lambs 27.00-28.00 with medium kinds down to 20.00 per 100 lbs. Pork under fair demand and moderate receipts steady. Today 8/10 loins 19.00-20.00, 10/12 18.00-19.00. Odd lots to freezer in order to clear supplies of lighter averages. Picnics steady with 4/6 average 16.00-16.50 per 100 lbs.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Liberal supplies, good buying demand and no marked price trend in either direction. Maryland and Delaware transparent apples lower at $1.50-2.00 bu. basket. Native asparagus unchanged, 3.00-5.00 bu. box for field run and 5.50-6.00 for extra fancy. Native string beans lower at 1.25-1.50 bu. box. Penna. blueberries 20-25c, native blueberries 30-35c quart. New York State blackberries 30-35c quart. Native bunched beets lower at 75-1.00 bu box. Carrots steady at 1.25-1.50 a box. Connecticut carrots 60-65c a dozen bunches. California cantaloupes plentiful but active at 2.75-3.50 per standard crate of 36-45 melons. Good native cucumbers lower at 3.00-3.50 a bu. box. Connecticut corn 2.00-2.25 per 28 quart hamper. New York currants 10-18c quart. Native lettuce steady at 50-1.00 bu box, New York State lettuce 1.75-2.00 a crate. Best California onions mostly 2.50 crate, Kentucky's 3.25-3.50 per 100 lb. sack. Best New York State Telephone peas 3.50-4.00 a bu. basket. Georgia Hiley peaches lower, mostly 2.00-2.25 with large well colored stock high as 3.50 a crate. Potatoes higher, partly because recent rains have stopped digging in South. Eastern Shore Virginias selling 4.75-5.00 and Norfolk potatoes 4.00-4.50 bbl. New York State red raspberries 10-20c quart. Connecticut crookneck squash 2.25-2.50 bu. box. Mississippi tomatoes higher at 60-90c a crate. Southern watermelons steady at 35-50c each for melons averaging 24-28 lbs in weight.

DAIRY AND POULTRY PRODUCTS

Butter market has been unsettled the past week with prices ½c lower on western extras today at 37½c and northern extras 38-38½c. Supplies have been liberal on all grades except 91-92 score butter which is scarce. Medium and under grades are in liberal supply and accumulating. Buyers willing to shade prices in order to clean up this class of goods but are holding firm on 91-92 score. Most all marks arriving this week are below their usual quality as they are showing the effect of the heat. Cheese market has ruled steady to firm this past week with more activity to trading. The bulk of the demand and trading has been on York State Twins around 22-22½c. Daisies and Young America's not very active and selling 21-22c. Egg market holds about steady with the bulk of the trading on current receipts. Buyers want fine Quality eggs and poorer goods are hard to move. Current receipts 24-25½c with grades receipts up to 26c. Trades and Dirties 21-22c. Nearby henneries selling 37-39c with fancy brown henneries up to 42c. Dressed poultry market dull with prices slightly lower. Native fowl ranging from 28-32c today. Broilers 40-44c. Live poultry easier on broilers at 32-34c but fowl holding steady at 26-28c.

Mrs. Mary Ann Pierce Thompson, the "grand, old lady" of Winthrop Mass., and one of the oldest residents of Greater Boston, celebrated the 102d anniversary of her birth June 27.

The age limit for applicants to the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Camp Devens has been changed. Hereafter boys who are now 16 and will reach the age of 17 during the month of August may apply for training.

A master's report filed in superior court Springfield, Mass., in the suit of the Chapman and Brooks company against George W. Lawrence, a former bookkeeper and his wife, for an accounting, declares that in the period 1911 and 1919 Lawrence improperly took $25,414 of the firm's funds. Lawrence, the report says, was first employed by the firm dealers in hardware at a salary of $15 a week and that at no time did his pay exceed $22 a week. It is stated in the report that Lawrence maintained an expensive home and that the money taken was used in the upkeep of his home and the payment of bills contracted by his wife and that his wife must have known that the firm's funds were being taken.

Connecticut valley truck gardeners and tobacco growers face the prospect of losing thousands of dollars as a result of the long continued rainy spell that has kept the ground continually soaked for weeks. The owner of one of the largest market gardens along the river bank at Riverdale reports that two-thirds of his entire crop is coated with mildew and that the roots of plants are beginning to rot. Tobacco growers in Westfield, Mass., where the American Sumatra Company has extensive fields, reports that tobacco plants are begining to rot. In Connecticut the lowlands are an inch under water. Potato crops in many places are submerged and when the water recedes it will be necessary to plant crops over again. Onion crops, both in Massachusetts and Connecticut, have suffered seriously and many of these tender seedlings will have to be reset.

After being rescued from drowning on three separate occasions Frederick Rosevalley is still enjoying the luxury of living. On June 10 Rosevalley fell off the end of Custom House Wharf, Portland, and was rescued by a shoreman. A few weeks later he fell into about three feet of water near the canoe house where he had been employed was pulled out and apparently felt none the worse for his experience. The other day he pitched from the top of a dam below the Stroudwater Canoe Club and fell about 10 feet

Moths and Mimicry.

In some large quarries in Argentina it has been observed that a certain species of night-flying moths frequents these places during the day to rest. The moths lie flat against the rocks, which they match perfectly in color, and are practically invisible. This instance is peculiar by reason of the fact that these quarries contain a colored stone which is unknown elsewhere, and the further fact that it is less than a hundred years since the quarries were opened.—Scientific American.

Missouri Wisdom.

When a man's wife asks him a question in a voice that revels off on a high key he knows that she knows the answer without his replying.—Mexico Ledger.

On Strike.

Opportunity—I'm perfectly willing to knock on every door once, but I'll be hornswoggled if I'll go through a turnstile.

Time on Shipboard.

"Two bells," "three bells," "four bells," etc., originated as the method of telling time aboard ship, on account of the twenty-four hours being divided into six watches of four hours each, thus having some one awake all the time. The passage of time was of no importance except to the watch on deck, so the bell was struck to show how many half-hours had passed. Thus "seven bells" would mean seven half-hours had elapsed; this might mean half-past three, half-past eleven, or half-past seven.

Companionship.

While on a visit to the Highlands a gentleman went to hire a carriage for the purpose of taking his family for a drive. He looked at a vehicle, and inquired how many it would hold. The proprietor scratched his head thoughtfully. "Weel," he said, "it hauds four generally, but six if they're weel acquent."

Republican Get-Together.

A get-together of the Republicans of Oxford County will be held at the court house at South Paris Tuesday, the 18th, at 10 o'clock A. M. Members of state, county and town committees will be present, and all interested voters, men and women, are cordially invited to attend. Among those who will be present are Congressman Wallace H. White, Jr., Chairman Robert J. Peacock of the Republican State Committee, Guy P. Gannett of Augusta, Maine member of the Republican National Committee, and Mrs. Gannett, who is vice-chairman of the State Committee.

Later in the day the County Committee will hold a meeting to make plans for the campaign.

Here and There.

It was a white man, Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson, who brought the native negro music, which has been so popular for a half century, before the people. He was commander of the first negro regiment to be mustered into the Federal forces during the civil war. It did not figure much as a fighting body, but it added a good deal to the chaplain's department, as can be learned by perusing Higginson's "Army Life in a Black Regiment." The pleading melody of "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and kindred African hymns has echoed through meetings, religious and secular, ever since the issue of that book. It was a white man, also, that brought out the swingy, whiney music of the Hawaiians now in vogue. He is Captain Henri Berger, who was bandmaster of the Royal Hawaiian Band from the days of monarchy down to 1916. He recently was tendered a luncheon by the Hawaiian Civic Club on the fiftieth anniversary of his landing in Honolulu, when he then related something of his work in the islands since that date. In 1872 King Kamehameha V wanted a bandmaster so he asked Emperor Wilhelm of Germany to send him one. Captain Berger of the German Army was selected. He was granted a five years furlough, but at the end of that time liked so well he became a citizen of the country. The native music attracted him, and he arranged and published a good deal of it, including the national anthem, "Hawaii Ponoi," and "Aloha Oe," the words and air of which were composed by Queen Liliuokalani.

This is what happened to a printer, but he did not work on the Oxford Democrat: "An Oakland, Calif., printer collided with a street car in that city and got all 'pied up.' They lugged him to the hospital, where the Doc picked three em slivers, two point wedges of glass and four or five sticks of ground up bone from his anatomy, and then attempted to send him out as a regular edition with a scare head attached. It was no go. He was 'off his feet,' and the surgeons say he won't be fit for distribution until he is 'sorter,' as he did not create a good impression when they pressed him as to the cause of the accident. The printer is disappointed, as the galley intended to marry, rules that she can't stick to him for any longer period in his present makeup, and the printer swears he will kill her off on sight. But the girl is composing herself by the thought that she will continue to chase the males just as long as men of the type she is after will letter." He is about in a class with the man who composed the following:

"It's fun to court,
But oh, how bitter,
To court a girl
An' then not gitter!"

Joseph E. Ramsdell of Louisiana, in a recent speech in the United States Senate, gave some interesting figures upon divorce in this country. According to him, in 1867 there were 9937 divorces in the country, or 27 for each 100,000 people. Forty years later, in 1906, there were 72,062 divorces, or 86 for every 100,000 of the population. Fifty years later, or in 1916, there were 112,036 divorces, or 112 for every 100,000. Thus it will be seen that in 1916 there were eleven times as many divorces granted as in 1867. Allowing for the increased population, divorce had increased during the half century 415 per cent. To put it another way, in 1867 there was one divorce for every 3666 people, while in 1916 there was one divorce for every 895 people; in 1887 there was one divorce for every 17 marriages; in 1906 there was a divorce for every 12 marriages; while in 1916 there was one divorce for every nine marriages.

Trains loaded entirely with wheat, corn or pulp wood are every day occurrences, but a train left Chicago one day last week which had an unusual lading. There were thirty-one cars in this train, each and every one loaded with chocolate. This product was in the form of ten-pound bars, and the entire cargo weighed 1,250,000 pounds. This is the largest single shipment of chocolate ever made so far as is known. The destination of the train was Stamford, Conn., where it is to be melted to cover candies.

Donald Melville Steadman.

Elsewhere in this paper may be found two notices, one of the marriage of Donald Melville Steadman of Portland to Miss Emily Stone Walker of Fryeburg, and the other of the death of Mr. Steadman by drowning while swimming in the Saco River, near Fryeburg, which occurred on Wednesday last.

This sad event is of interest to people in this part of Oxford County because Mrs. Steadman has been a part of the teaching force in the village of South Paris for the past year and is well known in that village, gaining many friends who will sympathize with her in her bereavement, after a brief marriage union of only twelve days.

Mr. Steadman was a brilliant young man, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Steadman of Rochester, N. H. He received his education in the schools of his native city and the University of Maine, graduating in the class of 1919. Since graduating, he has been teaching, first in an academy at St. Johnsbury, Vt., and later in the Portland High School. He had also been a teacher in Augustus H. Smith's camp for boys at Upper Kezar Lake, North Fryeburg. He had resigned his position in Portland and was to teach the coming autumn in the High School of Commerce at Springfield, Mass.

Besides his widow he leaves his parents, a brother, Harold of Bridgton, and a sister, Marjorie of Fryeburg.

THE OXFORD BEARS.

Bethel.

Ora Burgess, wife and child, are spending a month at the home of Mr. Burgess' mother, Mrs. John Coolidge, on the Middle Intervale Road.

Miss Alice Kimball spent last week at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. H. Howe, and family, at East Bethel.

It is with sadness that we report the death of Mrs. Lucinda S. Edwards, who has had a summer home in our midst for a number of years. Only seven years ago her only son died very suddenly, thus leaving her doubly alone, as her husband, who was Ayers Mason Edwards, had previously died. When she found herself alone in the world, she tried to cheer others on the way. She has gone where partings are no more, but she will be missed.

We take pleasure in announcing the marriage of Dr. Winfield E. Wight of Milan, N. H., to Mildred Stanley Tinker of Auburn, July 8, at the home of the bride's parents. Dr. Wight is a former student of Gould's Academy, and graduated in the class of 1913. He boarded with his uncle, Dr. I. H. Wight, while going to school here and has hosts of friends. Dr. and Mrs. Wight will make their home in Thomaston, Conn., after motoring through Canada for their wedding trip.

The marriage of Miss Frances Abbott of Bethel and Mr. Emile Freniere of Worcester, Mass., took place in Boston, June 25. They have been spending a few days at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles Abbott, on Swan's Hill.

Mrs. Nellie Russell and Miss Isabel Shirley have arrived at their summer home here from Brooklyn, N. Y.

W. S. Wight has been spending a week at Portland and Auburn, but is at home now, and will meet his chorus choir at the Methodist church as usual. They now have a chorus of twenty-five or more.

Nine of our Academy students, some who graduated before this year, and this year's class, are attending a normal school.

Miss M. M. Burnham of Pasadena, Calif., is visiting her sisters, Mrs. Lydia Barker and Miss E. E. Burnham. This is Miss Burnham's first visit in nineteen years.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Spearrin of Portland visited recently with their brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Spearrin.

We regret to learn that Mrs. William Kendall of Gorham, N. H., is seriously ill at the hospital in Berlin. Mrs. Kendall formerly lived in Bethel, and has many friends here.

H. S. Jodrey was in Berlin, N. H., recently, called there by the illness of his son-in-law, Mr. Bonney.

Mrs. Carolyn Brock, Mrs. Ula Parsons and Mrs. Gertie Hapgood recently spent a day at Round Pond, Locke's Mills.

Phyllis, Lois and Bessie Bartlett were guests of the Parsons children while their mother was at Locke's Mills.

Mrs. C. E. Tidswell of Upton is the guest of her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Forbes.

The Binghams, Gehrings and Fullers left Monday, July 10, for Christmas Cove.

Sunday evening, July 16, Rev. and Mrs. Elwin Parlin spoke on China at the Methodist church. It was very inspiring, as they have just returned from China as missionaries there.

Mr. and Mrs. Holt and son Reginald from Andover, Mass., are staying with Mrs. Holt's mother, Mrs. Francetta Purington, for a month. They came by auto.

Last Thursday there was a sale of ice cream, cake and home-made candy on the Methodist church lawn.

Mrs. Alice C. Deering spoke last Sunday evening on the mission work among the Spanish-Americans in New Mexico. She is H. N. Upton's sister, and is staying there for the summer.

North Paris.

J. Q. Allen had the misfortune to be badly bruised when his horse took fright and ran away, tipping over the wagon and throwing Mr. Allen out. He was at West Paris when the accident occurred. He is now confined to his bed.

Mrs. Farr is a guest of Mrs. Abbie Lowe. Mrs. Lowe is having her grass cut. Her son, B. C. Lowe, and grandson Berchard are doing the work.

The Willing Workers met with Mrs. Elizabeth Abbott Wednesday afternoon. Plans were made for a lawn party to be held on the church lawn on the evening of Aug. 3. Ice cream will be on sale, also aprons and other fancy articles. Everybody is invited to come. Remember the date, Thursday evening, Aug. 3.

Next meeting of the Willing Workers will be held with Mrs. Alfred Andrews. Those who wish to attend be ready for an auto ride at 1:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chapman are to make their home with C. L. Morrill for the winter at least. Mr. Morrill has returned from his visit to Massachusetts.

The members of the Union Sunday School and those of West Paris Sunday School are making plans for a picnic to be held on the third Saturday in August, the 19th. Members will be solicited for food, and those who come and are not solicited are requested to bring something to satisfy the needs of a hungry crowd. Don't forget this date, Aug. 19, and plan to come. Transportation will be afforded for those who cannot go by train.

S. G. Bean and Estella called on Mr. and Mrs. Maitland Bird Sunday.

Mrs. A. E. K. Grover spent last week with Mrs. W. I. Beckler. This week she is at Howard Allen's.

Mrs. J. E. Bennett called on Mrs. George Conner Saturday.

Quite a few have started haying. Two such nice days, but they soon passed by. There is an abundant crop, and I think we must have some sunshine some time.

Lovell.

The Chautauqua, recently held in our town, was much enjoyed by quite a good number, considering the weather, and being too early for many summer people. If it returns next year we hope it comes later in the season. These sessions are a great treat to us country people, as the instructors and entertainers are of a high order in all the branches.

Dr. C. P. Hubbard, formerly of Lovell, now of Fellsmere, Fla., is visiting his son at "The Pines" and calling on his former friends in this vicinity. He is much improved in health by his stay in the south, and intends to return in September.

Miss Elizabeth Bailey, who teaches in Massachusetts, is home for the summer vacation. Mrs. Bailey also accompanied her home from an extended stay in Massachusetts with her son Alvin. Her health is not as good as we all wish it might be.

Lewis Andrews and family, Eugene Andrews, Carl Dunham and Mrs. Fred Wiggin motored to Lovell from South Paris recently, calling at Lake Kezar and other places of interest. They enjoyed a picnic dinner under the maples at S. L. Plummer's, Eugene Andrews stopping there for a vacation of a few days.

The farmers are very thankful for a few bright sunny days. All hoed crops are far behind the average for this time of year. The indications now are that the apple crop will be very light. Much sweet corn is ruined by the long continued rains.

West Paris.

Michael Carbin passed away Wednesday afternoon at the home of Dexter W. Gray, where he had boarded for several years. Mr. Carbin suffered a paralytic shock about four weeks ago and was unable to speak or move, but at times seemed conscious. The remains were taken to Lynn, Mass., his former home, Thursday, an ambulance coming from that city. Saturday morning a funeral service was held and burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery beside his wife and two children. He was 59 years of age. In religious belief he was a Catholic. Mr. Carbin was a workman at the Paris Manufacturing Co., and the workmen sent flowers for the funeral. He had lived in West Paris about thirteen years and being of a courteous, pleasant disposition he had many friends.

Quincy Allen of Paris came near a serious accident one day last week when his horse became unmanageable at the corner of Main and Depot Streets and ran to the freight landing, going among wood piles and various things. Mr. Allen was thrown out, his head bruised and he was considerably shaken up. Finally the horse ran in between a car and platform and was caught uninjured. The horse was a valuable animal and is supposed to have got frightened in attempting to play in the harness.

Bankrupt's Petition for Discharge.

In the matter of HARRY J. CHASE, Bankrupt. } In Bankruptcy

To the HON. JOHN A. PETERS, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Maine:

HARRY J. CHASE of Fryeburg, in the County of Oxford and State of Maine, in said District, respectfully represents that on the 17th day of May, last past, he was duly adjudged bankrupt under the Acts of Congress relating to Bankruptcy; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said Acts and of the orders of Court touching his bankruptcy.

Wherefore he prays, That he may be decreed by the Court to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate under said bankruptcy Acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this 5th day of July, A. D. 1922.
HARRY J. CHASE, Bankrupt.

ORDER OF NOTICE THEREON.

DISTRICT OF MAINE, ss.

On this 15th day of July, A. D. 1922, on reading the foregoing petition, it is Ordered by the Court, that a hearing be had upon the same on the 25th day of August, A. D. 1922, before said Court at Portland, in said District, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon; and that notice thereof be published in The Oxford Democrat, a newspaper printed in said District, and that all known creditors, and other persons in interest, may appear at the said time and place, and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further Ordered by the Court, That the Clerk shall send by mail to all known creditors copies of said petition and this order, addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

Witness the HON. JOHN A. PETERS, Judge of the said Court, and the seal thereof, at Portland, in said District, on the 15th day of July, A. D. 1922.

Paying too much, paying more than the article is worth, paying more than it was intended to retail for.

A good many times people think that when they pay a big sum for a pair of shoes that they are getting a pair of shoes that are better than the ordinary shoe,—this is not always so, in fact, it is hardly ever so.

In buying a Douglas shoe you have no fear of over-charge, you cannot pay more than they are worth, you cannot pay more than they were intended to retail for and you cannot pay a penny more than they were intended to sell for, for the price is stamped on the sole of every shoe, and the price is the same here, there and everywhere that a Douglas shoe is sold. We are the agents for this vicinity. We carry several different styles.

He loved me well, I'm sure,
And often played about my head;
He was so spry, so gay,
I hate to think that now he's dead,
But still he bothered me.
So it was up to him to die,
And though it seemed a shame,
I had to swat that pesky fly.

Mrs. C. A. Bessey and daughter, Miss Lenora Bessey, of Stoneham, Mass., came Saturday for a visit at Mrs. L. C. Morton's. Miss Bessey and Miss Julia P. Morton will go to Camp Concord some time this week for a stay.

Rev. and Mrs. H. G. McGlauflin will go on Tuesday with Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Buck to Bailey's Island for a stay of ten days. It is vacation time at the Methodist church, and there will be no services there for the next three Sundays.

The men's classes and the Mary and Martha class of the Congregational Sunday School are invited at Walker's camp, Shagg Pond, Thursday, July 20th, to a picnic dinner. All who wish conveyance meet at the church at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Burgess and children Thelma and Leon returned Wednesday from an automobile trip of nine days through New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts. In Wollaston, Mass., they visited Mrs. Burgess' sister, Mrs. Harold C. Anderson, and family.

A break was discovered Saturday in the water works dam on Stony Brook. The water had gone entirely around the south end of the dam, making it necessary to draw the water all out to make repairs. It will probably take a week to repair the damage, during which time the dam will not be available for storage, and care in the use of water will be advisable.

Harry E. French of Conant and French, proprietors of the livery stable in South Paris, was arraigned in the Norway Municipal Court Saturday, on the charge of embezzlement in connection with the sale of some army trucks which had been left with the stable for sale. The hearing was continued for one week. Up to the time the Democrat goes to press, French had not secured bail.

The Trumbull Players presented the play, "Friendly Enemies," in Association Hall Saturday evening. The company is an excellent one, and the play, which is based on the world war, was enjoyed by a fair audience of lovers of the spoken drama. It was announced that the company is to play on a circuit, and that its next date here will be Friday, July 28. Theatrical companies under the conditions of the past few years have been few in number, and it is some years since South Paris has furnished the patronage or the physical equipment which would attract any such company. Now the equipment is ours, in Association Hall, and we may once in a while pick up a good thing if we will give the necessary support.

It has been pretty hard haying weather in the vicinity of South Paris during the week that has just passed. It is an old custom to begin haying the Monday after the Fourth; but this could not be done this year because of rain or near rain. Neither could it be done last Monday for the same reason; but there were a couple of good days the last of the week and farmers made the most of them. The rainy part of July generally comes in dog days but sometimes there is a rainy period in the first part of the month as this year, when the dog-day weather may be the best of the season. Before we had a government weather man to porphesy falsely, people depended upon old St. Swithin in regard to dog-days weather. Saturday was St. Swithin's Day and it is a superstition that there will be forty days of the same kind following it (which one hopes will be true) according to the old rhyme:

"St. Swithin's Day, gif ye do rain,
For forty days it will remain;
St. Swithin's Day, an ye be fair,
For forty days 'twill rain nae mair."

Paris Trust Company.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Paris Trust Company was held at its banking rooms last Wednesday, when the following officers and directors were elected for the coming year:

President—Perley F. Ripley.
Vice-President—Leslie L. Mason.
Secretary—J. Hastings Bean.
Treasurer—Irving O. Barrows.
Directors—Perley F. Ripley, Leslie L. Mason, George M. Atwood, J. Hastings Bean, Delbert M. Stewart, Walter L. Gray, D. Henry Fifield, John B. Robinson, Benjamin R. Billings, John A. Titus, F. R. Penley, Edwin J. Mann, Charles E. Brett, Harry Brown, Harold C. Fletcher.
Executive Committee—Perley F. Ripley, Leslie L. Mason, George M. Atwood, J. Hastings Bean, Delbert M. Stewart, Walter L. Gray, Harry Brown.

The statement of the past year's business as made by the treasurer was a most excellent one, showing considerable increase in deposits, surplus and earnings.

Oxford County Scout Camp.

The opening date (July 24) of the Oxford County Scout Camp is drawing near with a registration of strong 150. Every town in Scouting is well represented and new boys are signing all the time. Comp enthusiasm is waxing red hot, and the future outlook for this year's camp is a charter registration of two hundred members.

The following is a list of the directors of the Oxford County Scout Camp:

Harold C. Perham, camp director, West Paris.
Leslie Ferguson, asst. camp director, Rumford Falls.
Stanley Bartlett, scouting director, Locke's Mills.
Ronald Perham, athletic director, West Paris.
Carelton Andrews, swimming and boat director, Lewiston.
Charles Leonard, commissary director, Andover.
Dr. F. Willard, Bryant's Pond, Dr. I. H. Wight, Bethel, sanitation department.

Everyone will sleep under canvas and on regulation army cots. There will be a regular program for each day. Medical inspection will be held at least twice a week and in charge of competent doctors. Immediate first aid will be in charge of the camp master and assistant. All rulings made will be enforced to the letter and every person used exactly "on the square". The idea is to give every fellow a "corking good time" while in camp and have him feel that he is taking away from camp considerable more than he entered with. Boost the Boy Scouts of America.

Masonic Field Day and Picnic.

Saturday, July 22d, the Masonic and Eastern Star lodges of Berlin, Gorham, Bethel and Bryant's Pond, with their families and invited guests, will hold a field day and picnic at Bryant's Pond. Boating, base ball, sports, races and dancing. Picnic dinner at Dearborn Grove. Hot coffee, ice cream and cold drinks served by Jefferson Chapter, O. E. S., Bryant's Pond. Berlin Band, 24 pieces, and orchestra will be in attendance. Something doing every minute from 10 A. M. to 12 P. M. Come and have a day of enjoyment.

Company C at Devens.

Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds, the Twin Towns defeated the Oxford A. A. of Portland, 9 to 0. The score naturally shows the fact that the Portland team was outclassed, though the game was not so bad a one to watch as a casual glance at the figures might indicate.

Boy Scouts Hike to Oxford.

Monday morning Troop 1, Boy Scouts, of South Paris, gathered in front of Chas. Howard's store in readiness for camping. There were twenty boys in all with Ronald Perham in charge. The troop was in full uniform and "full of pep." Every one traveled on foot with full pack—the pack being considerable fuller at the end of the seven and a half mile hike.

The Scouts "hit camp" on Greeley Brook around noon, and made active use of that glorious period. After dinner every one went in swimming. Out of the twenty fellows, only one fellow was unable to swim. The special feature of the trip was the two athletic meets, with scores of 19 18 and 17-6. Every Scout took part, and it proved a wild time. Lloyd Cutting, Harry McGinley, and John Chandler passed several Scout requirements, and several other Scouts took practice tests in outdoor cooking.

Tuesday afternoon the Scouts "broke camp" and "hit for home," and the cries of "When are we going to have another?" proved that every one was satisfied with the trip.

Outdoor life of this sort is the best thing a boy can get next to, and to deprive him of the chance is to take away the cleanest and best experiences of his boyhood days. Boys will be boys wherever they are, but they never reach their best until they learn to court Mother Nature in her own country.

Harlow Reunion.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Dana Goff of New Sharon, a reunion was held over the week-end.

The party included Harry and Leon Harlow of Harlow Brothers Co., Inc., wool merchants, of Boston, Mrs. Elizabeth Harlow and Mrs. Kellar of Newton, Mass., Miss Fannie Harlow of Winthrop, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Harlow and son Percy, of Paris, Mrs. Daisy Merrill and son Bernard, of Manchester, N. H., and Misses Helen and Annie Goff.

It was a very enjoyable occasion. Wm. Harlow regaled the company with a brief review of his trip to the commencement at the University of Maine, this being the fiftieth anniversary and he one of the pioneer class. Seven of the original thirteen were present. They were requested to march in the pageant. Imagine their surprise as they passed to see each section in the grand stand rise while cheer upon cheer burst forth in greeting. Later much merriment was caused by thirteen students dressed in old-time style, who impersonated the original thirteen. The mannerisms were so truthfully copied that no difficulty was experienced in calling them by name.

Mrs. Wm. Harlow has returned home after a week's visit in New Sharon. Leon Harlow accompanied her, and returned to Boston Monday.

"I have used Dr. SETH ARNOLD'S BALSAM for bowel complaints for thirty-five years. Nothing we have ever used does the work that the Balsam does." Sold by Chas. H. Howard Co.

NORWAY.

A marriage took place in Auburn last week, which is of interest to Norway people because the groom, Arthur Strout, is a native of Norway, although his home has been in Auburn for many years. He graduated from Bates College in 1918 and is at present instructor of chemistry at Edward Little High School. The bride was Miss Doris Annie Kendall of Pittsfield, Vt.

Mrs. Annie Holt and two daughters are at the Williams Girls' Camps, Waterford Flat, for the summer. Over one hundred girls are in camp.

Otto Schnuer is visiting his son, Emil Herms, and family in Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Schmiddlin of New Jersey are camping on the shore of Lake Pennesseewassee.

Harry Rust Woman's Relief Corps will hold no more meetings until August 17.

Rev. Andrew T. McWhorter of Augusta will occupy the Congregational pulpit in this village on Sunday, the 23d. Rev. Mr. McWhorter was formerly a pastor of the Congregational church in South Paris. Rev. O. E. Barnard and family are taking a vacation.

Miss Marion Lougee, a former teacher in the Norway High School, who is now teaching chemistry in the University of Illinois, which has its seat in Urbana, Ill., invented a tree spray during the war, while working for the government, which is considered remarkable because it can be used both as a fungicide and insecticide. The formula is considered the best for general use of any yet produced.

Aubrey and Cecil Poppah of Toronto are guests of their uncles, William, Fred and Harold Moore in this village. Later they will visit their grandfather, Samuel Moore, in Gilead, and their aunt, Mrs. H. Walter Brown, and family at Old Orchard.

Miss Lola Smith is a guest at the Wheeler cottage, Birch Point, Salmon Lake, for a time.

Hon. B. G. McIntire, who had charge of raising Oxford County's part of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, reports that the matter is closed. The county's quota was $400, but $500 was raised. Norway donated $61.25.

F. W. Sanborn was in Bethel one day the first of last week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Corey spent a few days in Gilead, guests of Mrs. Corey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Wight.

Leon Newcomb met with a painful accident one day recently. Mr. Newcomb runs the Norway Market and was preparing to scald a fowl and in some way spilled the boiling water over his chest and one arm, scalding that part of his body badly.

Mr. and Mrs. John Matthews of Malden, Mass., are spending the summer at the Green Dragon, the Smith camp on the Oxford Road. Mr. Matthews is a teacher in the Malden High School.

Mrs. Mary Oxnard has gone to Massachusetts, where she will spend several weeks with relatives.

Dr. M. E. Stevens, the Portland osteopath, has made her last visit to Norway for the season. She will resume her visits on the first Wednesday in September.

Mrs. Edith Babcock of Springfield, Mass., is stopping in Norway for the summer.

Miss Mercy Millett has been spending a week at Freeport as guest of her brother, Robert N. Millett.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester P. Gates and son Roger and Mrs. Edith Babcock motored to Rockland last week, where they were guests of Mr. Gates' sister, Mrs. Nelson Carter, for several days.

Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Nichols and son Thomas of Skowhegan have been recent guests of their daughter, Mrs. Willard Lebroke.

John Howe and Everett Record were in Canton Tuesday.

William Henry Stone Post, American Legion, and the Ladies' Auxiliary held a picnic at Gibson's Grove Tuesday.

Mrs. Edith Sadlier Donohue, with young son, of Island Pond, Vt., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Eugene N. Swett.

Miss Pearl McAllister has returned to Norway after spending a few days at Songo Lake Cottage.

Miss Altie Cameron, who has been visiting in town, has returned to her home in Fryeburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron L. Allen and little daughter Norma of Westerly, R. I., have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Milliken. On Monday they left for Lewiston and Farmington but will return later for a stop in town.

Dr. Arthur W. Easton has made extensive repairs on his residence on Deering Street.

The Norway Board of Trade has completed a camping ground for tourists on the Klain place. A cook house has been erected, with toilets for men and women and a dump for rubbish. A cook stove has been donated, and the spring near by stoned up.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Kimball and Mr. and Mrs. George Tubbs spent several days last week at Camp Bruin in Hanover.

Mrs. Carrie Philbrook and son Frederick are in Conway, N. H., until September.

John H. Fletcher broke the bone of his leg above the ankle, Tuesday, in digging rocks at his camp at Sand Pond.

Miss Nellie Swan has returned from a visit to her cousin, Miss Ida Cole, at Locke's Mills.

Mrs. Mellie Butters has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Levi Butters, in North Lovell.

Rev. Robert J. Bruce and family of Portland are stopping in town. They will move to Syracuse, N. Y., in August, when Rev. Mr. Bruce will become pastor of a Congregational church.

Mrs. Don C. Seitz and a party motored to town one day last week from Harrison.

Mrs. Nettie Greenough and son Edmund of Portland have been visiting at Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Leavitt's.

George Libby of Roxbury, Mass., has been visiting his uncle, Alfred Ramsdell.

A stated convocation of Oxford Royal Arch Chapter, F. and A. M., will be held Wednesday at which the Royal Arch degree will be worked.

Serious Error in South Paris

South Paris Citizens Will Do Well to Profit by the Following.

Many fatal cases of kidney disease have reached an incurable stage because the patient did not understand the symptoms. Even to-day in South Paris there are many residents making the same serious error. They attribute their mysterious aches and pains to overwork, or worry, perhaps, when all the time their rheumatic pains, backache and bladder irregularities are most probably due to weak and ailing kidneys. If you are ill, if your kidneys are out of order, profit by this South Paris resident's experience.

Mrs. Fred Swan, corner Spring and Myrtle Streets, says: "I have always had more or less trouble from my kidneys. I got pretty bad and my back nearly killed me with pain. I couldn't lie in bed with any comfort and lost my sleep, which made me unfit for my housework the next day. I had pains in the back of my head which almost drove me wild. I felt tired and nervous all the time. Another member of the family got me a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the Howard Drug Co. and I began using them. They relieved me in a short time and cured me up in good shape. I am glad to recommend Doan's to other sufferers."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Swan had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Seven Ways with Sour Milk.

(By Florence Spring.)

The cost of milk is so great at the present time as to make it all the more necessary to guard against any waste of this expensive product. In hot weather, however, especially during the "dog-days," in spite of care and economical planning we sometimes find ourselves the possessors of sour milk and sometimes of sour cream. Of course this is not wholly a misfortune, as both may be used to excellent advantage in preparing many delicious dishes.

For Uxbridge Sour Milk Doughnuts, beat one egg in a bowl until light; then add one teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of sugar, and one cupful of sour milk, beating constantly. Measure and sift together one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of soda, and four cupfuls of pastry flour, or sufficient flour to make a dough of a consistency to roll. Add to the first mixture and beat until thoroughly combined. If the milk is a little creamy, no shortening will be necessary; if not, add one teaspoonful of melted shortening just before adding the flour. Toss the dough on a floured board, knead slightly; pat and roll out to one-fourth inch thickness. Shape with a doughnut cutter and fry in deep fat at 360° F., turning frequently until a delicate, golden brown.

Rice Pancakes are delicious and may be fried either on a hot griddle or in deep fat. Beat one egg in a bowl until light, then add one cupful of tender, cooked rice, one cupful of sour milk, and one teaspoonful of melted shortening. Measure and sift together one tablespoonful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of soda, and one cupful of pastry flour or sufficient to make a batter of cake batter consistency. Add to the first mixture and combine thoroughly. Then drop either on a hot, greased griddle or by tablespoonfuls in deep fat at 360° F. and fry until golden brown. If an ungreased griddle is used, increase the amount of melted shortening added to one tablespoonful. Serve these pancakes with a little cider and sugar as a sauce.

Gingerbread Drop Cakes are excellent. Beat one egg in a bowl until light, then add one cupful of molasses, one cupful of sour milk, and one-half cupful of melted shortening. Measure and sift together four and one-quarter cupfuls of pastry flour, one teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of ginger, one-fourth teaspoonful each of nutmeg and cinnamon, and a dash of cloves. The batter should be like stiff cake batter. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets and bake at 375° F. for about twenty minutes. If sour cream is used instead of sour milk, you should omit the melted shortening.

For Sour Milk Corn Cake, beat one egg until very light, then add one-fourth cupful of sugar, beat again, and add two cupfuls of sour milk and one teaspoonful of salt. Measure and sift together one and one-fourth cupfuls of pastry flour, one and one-fourth cupfuls of Indian meal, and one teaspoonful of soda, and add to the first mixture while beating constantly. The result should be a soft drop batter. Add two tablespoonfuls of melted shortening, beat again, and pour into two greased, shallow pans. Bake at 400° F. from twenty to twenty-five minutes.

Sue's Fudge Cake is a sour milk chocolate cake. Cream together one-half cupful of butter or margarin and one cupful of sugar. Then add one well-beaten egg and two squares of melted chocolate. Measure and sift together one teaspoonful of salt, three-fourths teaspoonful of soda, two cupfuls of pastry flour, and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Add alternately to the mixture with one cupful of sour milk. Last add one teaspoonful of vanilla. Pour into a greased cake pan and bake at 350° F. for forty-five minutes. Frost with either chocolate or white frosting.

Sour Milk Cake. Cream together one-half cupful of shortening and one cupful of brown sugar. Measure and sift together one-fourth teaspoonful each of nutmeg, cinnamon and clove, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of soda, and one and three-fourths cupfuls of pastry flour. Add to the first mixture alternately with one cupful of sour milk and beat well. Clean and measure one cupful of chopped, seeded raisins, mix with one-fourth cupful of pastry flour, and add to the cake batter. Beat well and bake at 325° F. for one and one-quarter hours.

For Horseradish Mayonnaise whip one-half cupful of cold, thick sour cream until very stiff. Then add gradually one teaspoonful each of lemon juice and vinegar, or two teaspoonfuls of either one, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of rather dry prepared horseradish, one-fourth teaspoonful each of salt and sugar, and a dash of cayenne and paprika. This dressing is particularly good for oyster or sliced cucumber salad.—Good Housekeeping.

Seasonable and Tested Recipes.

CHICKEN PUDDING.

Cut up a large, tender chicken, as for fricassee, and cook in water barely to cover, with seasoning of two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley and one stalk of celery, cut in half-inch pieces. When chicken is done, lift out the pieces and place in a deep baking dish; strain the liquid, and add enough milk to make three cups; dissolve in it one-half a cup of butter, and mix into it two beaten eggs. Sift one quart of flour with four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and one teaspoonful of salt, and stir into the liquid to make a smooth batter. Pour this over the chicken in the baking dish, and cook in a hot oven until a brown crust is formed.

BAKED FRESH STRAWBERRY PUDDING.

Butter well the inside of a two-quart pudding dish, and line it, sides and bottom, with macaroons, pressed into the butter. Put into the lined dish a quart of ripe strawberries, hulled and sugared. Beat, until thick, the yolks of four eggs; add three-fourths a cup of sugar and beat again. Add the grated yellow rind of one lemon, and the juice of one-half. Fold into this mixture the beaten whites of two eggs, and pour the whole over the sugared berries. Oven-poach until the eggs are set. Beat the two remaining egg-whites stiff, and spread over the pudding. Sift fine, granulated sugar, rather freely, over the top, and return to the oven, or place under a gas flame, until sugar is melted and slightly browned.

BAKED MACARONI.

Cook three-fourths a cup of macaroni, broken in inch lengths. Scald one cup of thin cream; stir into this two tablespoonfuls of butter and one-fourth a pound of cheese, grated or cut into very thin slices. When smooth add one-fourth a teaspoonful of salt, and half a teaspoonful of paprika and pour over the macaroni, which has been turned into a shallow baking-dish. Have ready a scant cup of half-inch cubes of bread, fried delicately in a little butter. Sprinkle these over the macaroni. Serve very hot.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE.

Cream one cup of butter; beat in the yolks of five eggs, one at a time; add one cup of boiling water, and stir and cook until the mixture thickens; remove from the fire and stir in four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one-fourth a teaspoonful of pepper and one-half a teaspoonful of salt.

PRUNE-AND CREAM CHEESE SALAD.

On nests of lettuce arrange large, selected, cooked prunes, cut in halves. With buttered hands make balls of cream cheese; arrange the balls of cheese in the prunes; sprinkle sliced castana nuts over all. Serve with a salad dressing, made by beating one cup of heavy cream, flavored with two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one-fourth a teaspoonful of salt and one-half a teaspoonful of paprika.

RASPBERRY ICE.

Boil two cups of water and one cup of sugar rapidly twenty minutes; add one cup of raspberry juice, and the juice of half a lemon and freeze as usual.

AS TYPE OF MONOTHEISM

Melchizedek So Figures in Pages of Scripture and as Character in Legends.

Melchizedek is a vague character occasionally mentioned in the Scriptures, whose name means "king of righteousness." The most definite references to him indicate that he was king of Salem, and priest of Jehovah in the time of Abraham, uniting the royal with the priestly dignity, and so becoming a welcome type for the ancient writers.

Later on his name seems to have become more or less legendary, and was used in a figurative sense as "a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek," and he is placed in the same category as the Messiah, Himself, apparently as a type of ancient monotheism. Still later he becomes identified with Shem, the son of Noah, and the ancestor of Abraham, and is the subject of an elaborate story in the Egyptian book of Adam and Eve. In this story he is represented as having been chosen of God "from all generations of men," to stand by the body of Adam after it had been brought back to Jerusalem. He is supposed to have remained with Adam's body under the protection of an angel until he encountered Abraham. He is one of the four mentioned in Holy Writ as "without father and without mother, without descent, having neither beginning of days nor end of life, but made like unto the son of God abiding forever."

WOMAN AND HER SECRETS

Admitting That She Keeps Them Well, Writer Wonders If She Has Any to Reveal.

Heaven knows there is little novelty about woman. Adam was the only man to whom she was something new. Her "elemental inconsistencies" have lent color to every page of the world's history, and she has shown no disposition to conceal them. "Woman does not betray her secret," wrote Immanuel Kant, ponderously, and with that truly German air of providing food for thought. Just what he expected her to betray, just what anybody expects her to betray, has never been made manifest. The cat is the only one of God's creatures that suggests reserve and perhaps secrecy. I have sometimes thought that half-shut eyes and the immobility of relaxed nerves may be responsible for the suggestion, and that this self-contained little beast is less mysterious than it looks. Woman does not even look mysterious, save in the veiled East. In the West all her efforts tend to revelation. Her secret is as easily kept as are the secrets of the cat and of the Free Masons, and for the same reason. The only thing she does not tell is how she is going to vote. This makes her interesting to the politicians, if not to the world at large. The basic principles of party politics have not taken firm hold of her intelligence. By-paths and side issues seduce her from the main traveled roads over which the male voter sturdily trudges.

French "Convulsionnaires."

The Convulsionnaires were a curious group who flourished in France in the early part of the Eighteenth century. They were in the habit of meeting in St. Medard's churchyard, in the suburbs of Paris, in which was located the tomb of Abbe Francois de Paris, where countless miracles were alleged to have been performed. The members of the sect threw themselves into the most violent contortions, rolled on the ground, imitated birds and animals and fishes, and when entirely exhausted fainted or went into convulsions.

At length Louis XV issued an order against them, ordering them to be imprisoned if found "carrying on" in this fashion. But even with these strict regulations against them it was difficult to stamp out the fervor entirely for a great many years.

Word "Bum" Has Dignified History.

The word "bum," which is considered by nearly everyone as a pure Americanism of the most vulgar sort, has in reality a very dignified history. It was first used in England more than two centuries ago in the form of "bummer." A bummer was a man who peddled fish outside the regular markets and these persons were, of course, looked down upon and held in contempt by the regular dealers. The word finally gained a general significance and came to mean any dishonest person or one of irregular habits. It appears in the English market by-laws of the Seventeenth century in the form of "Bummaree."

The word appeared in the United States during the gold days in California and gradually made its way east.

Pithy Paragraphs.

The world condemns a woman with great severity when she goes wrong. Some few centuries later a group of men played the same cards in the same way for the life of the world's best men, and not one of their names is remembered. Jezebel can never be forgotten. She was a woman.—James W. Valentyne.

The preacher who is sensational in the sense of utilizing methods or matter the main object of which is to attract may gain attention, but will rarely win a heart, and, after all, heart culture, properly understood, which, according to Proverbs, "determines the issues of life," is the fundamental and finest service of a church.—Alexander Lyons.

The Difference.

"I speak four languages," proudly boasted the doorman of a hotel in Rome to an American guest.

"Yes, four—Italian, French, English and American."

"But English and American are the same," protested the guest.

"Not at all," replied the man. "If an Englishman should come up now I should talk like this: 'O, I say, what extraordinary shocking weather we're having! I dare say there'll be a bit of it ahead!' But when you came up I was just getting ready to say: 'For the love o' Mike! Some day, ain't it? Guess this is the second floor, all right!'"

Selfish Extravagance.

He—Your bills are awfully heavy again this month, my dear.

She—Well, the nerve of you objecting to my bills when you know it is papa who pays them.

He—That's just it! How can I have the cheek to ask him to meet any of mine when you're touching him up all the time?—Boston Transcript.

Thumbs Down.

In the gladiatorial combats which took place in ancient Rome a wounded man would sometimes call for mercy by holding up his forefinger. The spectators would thereupon either wave their handkerchiefs in token of mercy, or condemn him to death by holding out their clenched fist with the thumbs down.

UNCLE HANK

Th' only thing that keeps some fellers from eatin' soup with a knife is their instinct for self-preservation.

On this 8th day of July, A. D. 1922, on reading the foregoing petition, it is—

Ordered by the Court, That a hearing be had upon the same on the 18th day of August, A.D. 1922, before said Court at Portland, in said District, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon; and that notice thereof be published in the Oxford Democrat, a newspaper printed in said District, and that all known creditors, and other persons in interest, may appear at the said time and place, and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered by the Court, That the Clerk shall send by mail to all known creditors copies of said petition and this order, addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

Witness the Honorable JOHN A. PETERS, Judge of the said Court, and the seal thereof, at Portland, in said District, on the 8th day of July, A. D. 1922.

[L. S.] JOHN P. KNOWLTON, Clerk.

A true copy of petition and order thereon.

Attest: JOHN P. KNOWLTON, Clerk.

What housewives wanted

An oil range that has the cooking speed of gas and is always reliable

THE manufacturers of the famous New Perfection cook stove now offer such an oil range to the public. It has been made possible by the invention of an entirely new type of burner—the Superfex.

This latest and vastly improved New Perfection Oil Cook Stove matches the cooking speed of gas, and at the same time increases the well-known economy and convenience of cooking with kerosene. Double-walled, double draft burners, giving 20% increased efficiency. New automatic wick stop. Unbeatable for the exact adjustment of steady heat—everything from a simmering stew to a quick, juicy grill.

The many advantages that have made New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves the choice of over 4,000,000 housewives have been brought one step nearer perfection in this new model. And remember there's no coal, wood or ashes to carry when you use a New Perfection—no kindling litter to clean up, no stove blacking to do.
